F. P. Blair is calling the Union men of Missouri original secessionists. It places him in a bad light among men who formerly admired and trusted him.

According to the recent State census New Jersey has now a population of 771,700, which is a gain in five years, of over 100,000. Hudson and Essex counties exhibit the largest relative increase.

William Preston Johnston is a candidate for the clerkship of a Court in Louisville. He is a son of Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston who was killed at Shiloh, and was aid-de-camp to Jeff Davis during the war.

There were 7,938 deaths, and 4,400 marriages and 10,202 births in Connecticut during the past year, leaving the population of the State, 2,252 greater than in 1864. A negro woman in Stratford, 107 years old, was the oldest person who died. 404 divorces were granted during the year.

Cassimere cloth, equal in texture and durability to the best English manufacture, is now being made at Minneapolis, Minn., of wool grown in that State. Ten years ago that city was hardly laid out, and the country around St. Anthony's Falls was an unbroken wilderness.

The Sacramento Bee learns that Wells, Fargo & Co have started suits in New York against the shippers of that case of nitro glycerine, for one hundred thousand dollars damages. To repair the building they occupied will cost twenty five thousand dollars.

The Boston Clearing House has voted not to receive on deposits, after July 1st bills of the State banks. This will make them uncurrent, requiring the holders thereof to either sell them at a discount or to send them home for redemption. The amount still in circulation is not very large.

Erastus Brooks is almost the only one of the New York editors who lives on Staten Island, and consequently, he is the only editor who opposes the selection of Seguine's Point as a quarantine ground—the fact being that, with regard to the picking out of the place, Brooks sees the "point," and the rest don't.

The Army and Navy Journal, remarking upon our Indian policy, represents that the savages find it an object to make war in order to make treaties afterwards and get handsome presents. The editor says there is hardly a tribe between the Missouri and the mountains that does not understand and has not practiced this simple and easy method of "raising the wind."

The long contemplated monument in memory of David C. Broderick, in Lone Mountain Cemetery, San Francisco, is now complete, with the exception of the bust of Broderick, to be inserted in a niche which is now being cut by P. J. Devine, the sculptor. The whole structure and surroundings will cost about $17,000 when completed, $7,500 of which was contributed by the State.

P. M. Myers is the gold broker of the Government in New York. A few weeks ago, he sold $32,000,000 of gold at 130¼@130½. Immediately after this sale, gold ranged at 140¼@141¼, and the purchaser of the $32,000,000 of the Government realized a profit of $3,500,000 in currency. Who made this money? Mr. Myers is a brother in law of Secretary McCulloch, and one of the great pets of President Johnson.

Gen. Rousseau, by his personal assault on Mr. Grinnell, of Iowa, on account of words spoken in debate, has earned the unqualified condemnation of the mass of those who sympathized with him heretofore, and who condemned in toto the undignified and unparliamentary course of the Iowa member on the occasion of the debate in question. The first doubt of his personal courage is suggested by the cowardly assault, without notice, on an unarmed man.

Nashville is surrounded by a turn of earthworks rising in massy battlements from river to river, and forming a perfect crescent pierced by streets and avenues. These battlements pass over a dozen hills, embracing in the circuit some of the best views in the southwest. It is now proposed to appropriate several thousand dollars, and connect all these works by a winding avenue 10 miles long, wide enough for two carriages to drive abreast, overshadowed by shade trees, ornamented by rustic seats and booths, and at once the delight of visitors and citizens, the resort of all and the pride of the city.

A dispatch dated Nashville, June 14th, says: "Harper and his gang are again on the rampage. Yesterday, while Myers and two other guerrillas were being sent, under guard, from Franklin, Kentucky, to Bowling Green, the guard was set upon by Harper with about 40 men, and the prisoners rescued. It was feared by the persons who communicated this information, that the jail of Franklin, in which two murderers and other criminals were confined, will be attacked to-night by Harper. Gen. Fisk has, in consequence, ordered a detachment of troops to proceed thither forthwith, and give Harper and his gang a warm reception. The troops will remain in that vicinity until quiet is restored."

THE INDIANS.—The Walla Walla Statesman contains the following remarks on a subject which is just now of great interest to the people who live east of the Cascade mountains:

A proposition is now up before Congress transferring the control of Indian affairs from the Interior Department to that of War. The proposed change is correct and cannot be made too soon. The present system of Indian management is expensive to the Government, and is attended with no corresponding advantage. The Indian can only be governed through his fears, and for this purpose a military officer, backed by a file of soldiers, is a far more efficient agent than a civilian with his blankets and trinkets. If the Indian was capable of gratitude this system of buying his friendship would have something to recommend it, but when it is understood that he attributes all such concessions to the fears of the white man, it will be seen at once that the effect of the system is essentially bad. The gathering of them together on reservations with a view to instructing them in the arts of civilized life wherever tried, has failed. In the Indian character the element of progress does not exist, and hence the effort made in his behalf has been labor lost. Totally worthless and without one redeeming trait of character, the sooner he disappears from the earth the better. In the mean time, as a matter of protection to the whites, he should be placed under military control. In this way, although the Indian can never be made useful, he may be rendered harmless.

BEAR CREEK.—From a private letter written to a gentleman in Walla Walla, from Bear Town, Deer Lodge county, under date of July 1st, 1866, we are permitted, says the Statesman, to glean the following in relation to that section:

"I arrived in this town about a week ago. The town is about four weeks old, contains about seventy houses and a population of about 2,000 in and around it. The mining claims on Bear creek, as a general thing, are not yet opened, and I cannot, therefore, give an opinion with regard to them. There are a few claims below the discovery which prospect well. On Deep Gulch, a tributary of Bear creek, there are some fifty or sixty claims opened, and all paying well. Prospects have been got as high as sixty dollars to the pan. Mr. Whitman is in this place selling goods. Mr. Van Dyke is working a claim on Deep Gulch, and is also doing well."

THE FENIANS.—A late Washington dispatch says:

President Roberts, of the Fenian Brotherhood, was on the floor of the House to-day, and was cordially received by the Union members. The movement already inaugurated by the Fenians to identify themselves with the party of freedom has greatly excited the Copperhead papers here, and both speak of the affair in terms that betray great alarm. President Roberts feels confident that hereafter the Fenians will go with the Union party.

TREES ON THE PLAINS.—On the subject of planting trees on the Plains, which has lately had some attention in Congress and at the General Land office, the Salt Lake Telegraph remarks:

"The problem is whether the moisture shall come first to grow the trees, or the trees grow first to fetch up and down the moisture? Almost as interesting as the question whether the first chicken produced the first egg or the first egg produced the first chicken? Was the egg first or the chicken first? Which is to be first produced on the Plains—growing trees to produce moisture, or moisture to produce growing trees?"

Concession of Lower California

Mention has been made in our dispatches of the cession of a large portion of the peninsula of Lower California to an association of American citizens. The following are some of the particulars of the transaction:

EXTENT OF THE CESSION.

The purchase includes all the lands of the Peninsula of Lower California, between 24 and 31 degrees and 20 minutes of North latitude, extending longitudinally by parallel lines from the Gulf of California to the Pacific Ocean. In the grant are included all islands, harbors, bays, estuaries, navigable streams, mines, fisheries, and all other proprietary rights and franchises not heretofore granted or now held by any valid title. The grant contains 46,800 square miles.

NATURE OF THE CONCESSION.

The territory, with all the rights and franchises named, is granted under the laws of Mexico, for purposes of colonization—one of the conditions being that, "within the term of five years, reckoned from the day of the approval of this project of colonization, the 'empresarios' will introduce into the territory 200 colonizing families at least." The rights of Mexican citizens are to be respected whether their rights have been confirmed or not, but no claims preferred by them as attaching since the concession was made are to be respected. The privilege is further reserved to Mexican citizens to colonize one fourth part of said territory, paying therefor to the Government the same price as is stipulated to be paid by the American proprietors.

MANNER OF OBTAINING THE CONCESSION.

Jacob P. Leese and Santiago Viosca, in March, 1864, at La Paz, for themselves and associates hereinafter named, drew up and presented a petition to Manuel Clemente Rojo, Agent of Fomento (public improvements) for Lower California, asking a concession of the vacant lands above described, for the purpose of introducing colonists from the United States. This petition was forwarded to the "Citizen Political Chief" and Constitutional President of Mexico, Juarez. At about the same time another petition was forwarded by Don Severino Couris and Don Santiago Herveison, asking for the same concession. The Juarez Government reported favorably upon the petition of Leese and his associates, and the petition was granted subject to certain conditions. But the time limited having expired before the first installment of purchase money was paid over negotiations were opened with M. Romero, Mexican Minister at Washington, in order, if possible, to "revaliditate" the concession, which was done on the condition that one hundred thousand dollars should be paid over to the Mexican Government within six months from November 10, 1865. A large number of Eastern capitalists having been added to the original list, it is understood the conditions were carried out in good faith.

It is understood that a commission under J. Ross Browne will be organized to make an exploration of the Peninsula during the coming winter. This is one of the most extensive private enterprises ever undertaken upon this side of the continent. Lower California is now practically in the hands of Americans, and has assumed an importance which it never had before.

PRODUCTS OF THE WEST.—In a late speech delivered in the House of Representatives on the subject of Canals, Hon. W. B. Allison, from the Third District of Iowa, submitted the following figures relative to the products of the Northwestern States:

In 1864 there was produced in Illinois, Wisconsin and Iowa, one-fourth of all the live stock produced in this country, amounting in value to $240,000,000, in round numbers, of wheat, more than one third, or 69,000,000 bushels, of corn, nearly one half, or 230,000,000 bushels, of cattle, 2,000,000, or one-third of the whole product; and of hogs, 4,000,000, or nearly one-third of the of the whole product. This, with a population of three tenths of the population of this country. The surplus of this enormous product must find a market in New England and other Eastern States or it must go abroad. I state but the truth when I say that our farmers are now being ground to powder between the upper and nether stone millstone of monopoly that requires for transportation to New York one bushel of wheat for every bushel transported from the Mississippi to New York, and two for every bushel of corn thus transported; and for this reason they are looking with intense interest upon our deliberations here to give them some relief whereby their toil may be properly rewarded. The measure now before the House I have no doubt will be of material service in the right direction. But it is not enough, and this Congress will fail in the discharge of one of its most important obligations to the country if it adjourns without passing an act to remove all obstructions now in the way of safe and continuous navigation of the great river that threads itself midway between the oceans that mark our eastern and western boundary, running from the British Possessions to the Gulf of Mexico. That is the natural highway for the commerce of the Mississippi valley, both for the eastern portions of our own country and to foreign markets. And the West will not be content until the obstructions in the way of successful navigation of this river are removed, the most material of which lie upon the borders of Iowa and Illinois.

THE DISCIPLINE OF UNITED STATES SOLDIERS.—Upon the authority of a person who saw Jeff Davis ushered into his cell at Fortress Monroe, the following incident is related:

Being ushered into his inner cell by General Miles, and the two inner doors leading thereinto from the guard-room being fastened, Mr. Davis, after surveying the premises for some moments, and looking out through the embrasure with such thoughts passing over his lined and expressive face as may be imagined, suddenly seated himself in a chair, placing both hands on his knees and asked one of the soldiers pacing up and down within his cell this significant question: "which way does the embrasure face?"

The soldier was silent. Mr. Davis, raising his voice a little, repeated the inquiry. But again silence, or only the measured footfalls of the two pacing sentries within, and the familiar echoes of the four without. Addressing the other soldier, as if the first had been deaf and had not heard him, the prisoner again repeated his inquiry. But the second soldier remained silent as the first, a slight twitching of his eyes only intimating that he had heard the question, but was forbidden to speak.

"Well," said Mr. Davis, throwing his hands up and breaking into a bitter laugh, "I wish my men could have been taught your discipline!" and then, rising from his chair, he commenced pacing back and forth before the embrasure, now looking at the silent sentry across the moat, and anon at the two silently pacing soldiers who were his companions in the casemate.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE.

FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 20, 1866.

The Philadelphia Convention.

The "new party" mountain has been in labor for something like a year, and is expected to be delivered of its mouse early in next month. The "man midwives" who have been selected to officiate and administer the usual herb teas on the momentous occasion, are very busy distributing their cards and preparing to give the little stranger a welcome proportionate to the political importance of its reputed father. Doolittle seems to be the chief officiating midwife. Armed with the confidence of the man whom the Union party made second, and whom the Democratic gang made first, in the nation, Doolittle is tea-drinking and snuff-taking, in the most sociable possible manner with the beldames of secession and Copperheadism. They are all invited, not only as guests but as co-sharers, also, in the responsibilities and glories attendant upon the long anticipated event. They are all to be there, too. Gov. Orr of South Carolina who, according to A. H. Stephens, has learned no new doctrine from the rebellion and formed no new opinion except that the South is not strong enough now to win its independence, will be there, attended by a train of other South Carolinians who also have not changed a whit since the day they precipitated South Carolina into rebellion. Several other Southern Governors who formerly were for several years engaged in the laudable business of "firing the Southern heart," will be there, and upon the first squeak of the "new party" mouse will throw their caps in air as gaily as when Beauregard fired his first cannon shot at Ft. Sumter. Pendleton who boasted that he had never voted a man or a dollar to carry on "this cruel war," will be there, and endow the mouse with all the blessings which he did not bestow upon the Union cause. Vallandigham, who, on account of a few treasonable remarks in Ohio, found that his health demanded a trip to Canada, will probably be there, or if he can't attend in person, will write a letter of congratulations. Dan Voorhes, Ben Wood and their ilk, who never had an emotion of sympathy except for rebels, will be there in force. The rebel-Copperhead-Democratic party will be represented by hissing snakes out of every den from Maine to Umatilla, Long Tom and Soap Creek.

Who else will be there? Why a host of unimpeachable patriots, such as Doolittle, and Cowan and—Cowan and—and Doolittle and—and several public pap-suckers who think that so long as "my policy" keeps them in the enjoyment of post offices and marshalships, and other bread-and-butter institutions, it matters very little what "my policy" is or how often it changes. Of course, they will be there, but they will be in a most pitifully insignificant minority. There will be there, face to face, men who never met before in political accord, and who are now no nearer together than the two poles of the earth, on any question except that of getting and eating official bread and butter. Those of them who supported the Union cause against traitors, will hear some very sound secession-Democratic talk from the self-same "National-Union Johnson" men who fought in the front ranks of the rebellion, and they will be asked to subscribe to it. They may wriggle and smart under the imputation of having been vile traitors when they opposed secession, but they must bear it, or withdraw, well scourged as they deserve to be; for secession Democracy will be in an overwhelming majority there.

We said there will be public pap-suckers there. So there will be, but to their honor be it spoken, there are many holders of Federal offices who spurn the strange gods, and repudiate the spurious commandments which a fallen, debauched Moses now offers them. Doolittle found a man where he looked for a crouching spaniel, when he sent his master's note to Gov. Dennison. Dennison was crowded out of the Cabinet, but remained a man and not a creature. There are thousands of others who may have Dennison's fate enforced upon them, but they will not wear Johnson's collar. They are not ready yet to be fused with that element which hated and still hates the Union and which exhausted its last energy in the attempt to destroy it.

There are thousands of them who will answer as did Judge Hughes, of Indiana, when he replied to the truckling Doolittle-Cowan invitation to commit political suicide by taking part in the Philadelphia Convention. The whole Union party will answer as did Judge Hughes:

> "I am not ready for such a fusion. If it is to be made, let the Democratic party first retire the conspicuous anti-war leaders, and let sufficient time elapse for the grass to grow on the graves of our heroic dead. For the present, I advise all Union men to remain steadfast to their own organization, hoping its dissensions may yet be healed and keep aloof from proceedings which can only result in the election of the Democratic ticket."

The end of the Philadelphia Convention will be to satisfy every Union man that the new party is simply the progeny of the old Democratic-secession harlot. No man who is now in accord with the principles of that party which put down the rebellion, can sink himself in his own self respect, low enough to remain in an organization sprung from the very loins of treachery—such as will be the "National Union Johnson party." When that convention shall have adjourned, the Union party will be thousands upon thousands stronger than on the day of its meeting.

LET JUSTICE BE DONE.—In Montesquieu's 'Considerations on the Grandeur of the Romans,' we find a striking passage which could not have been made more applicable to these times if the great publicist when he wrote it, had had in his mind the condition of things that exists in our country at this day. "There cannot be," says he, "a more cruel tyranny than that practised under the shadow of the laws and with the color justice, when men go to work to drown the wretched on the very plank on which they were saved." Our nation by the most solemn act in its annals, has set free a class of population numbering millions. It yet remains to be shown whether the nation will cause their emancipation to add to their wretchedness, or whether freedom shall be made a permanent and inestimable blessing to them:—whether the liberated blacks shall have the protection of the strong hand that severed their servile bonds, or whether they shall be drowned on the very plank on which they were saved. The Congress of the United States has proven true to promise the nation gave, and has done what it could to confirm the emancipated blacks in the enjoyment of freedom. The amendment to the Constitution, if adopted, will establish their rights beyond cavil. Less than what it grants, or rather what it assures to them, the nation could not, in honor, bestow. The proposed amendment should be adopted if it were only to establish the principle that all classes of persons have certain rights which are not to be invaded, abridged or wrested away.

The Marysville Appeal says that the following is circulating among the "my policy" papers of California:

> Rufus Mallory, the Congressman elect in Oregon, has announced himself in favor of Johnson's policy. He is the first member elected to the Fortieth Congress.

The above is as ridiculously absurd as anything the "my policy" papers of California have ever started. Mr. Mallory is just as likely to support Gen. Lee for the next Presidency as to favor "Johnson's policy" in Congress or anywhere else.

The effort of the Democratic party to get rid of its odious record and atone for its past treason by changing its name, reminds us of Squire Shandy's brilliant idea of making amends for the loss of his son's nose by giving him the splendid name of Trismegistus.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO JULY 18.

The Tennessee Imbroglio—No Military Interference.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The following dispatch was received to-day from Gen. Thomas:

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 14.—To Lieutenant-General Grant, Washington: Some of the members of the House of Representatives in the General Assembly, conduct themselves in a very refractory manner, absenting themselves to prevent a quorum, thus obstructing business. The Governor cannot manage them with the means at his disposal, and has applied to me for military assistance. Shall I furnish it?

Signed, GEO. H. THOMAS,
Major General Commanding.

The following answer was immediately given:

WASHINGTON, July 17.—General Grant will instruct Gen. Thomas, that the facts stated in his telegram do not warrant the interference of the military authorities in the administration of the peace in Nashville. It belongs properly to the State authorities. The duty of the United States forces is not to interfere in any way in the controversy between the political authorities of the State, and Gen. Thomas will strictly abstain from any interference between them.

E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

A War Democrat Speaks—Sound Advice.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Judge James Hughes, formerly of Indiana, lately Judge of the Court of Claims here, and a prominent War Democrat, to-day sent a reply to the invitation to take part in the Philadelphia Convention, in which he said: "I am not ready for such a fusion. If it is to be made let the Democratic party first retire its conspicuous anti-war leaders, and let sufficient time elapse for the grass to grow on the graves of our heroic dead. For the present, I advise all Union men to remain steadfast to their own organization, hoping that its dissensions may yet be healed and kept aloof from proceedings which can only result in the election of the Democratic ticket."

The Gold Market Firmer.

NEW YORK, July 17.—The evening Post's money article says gold is strong to-day, in anticipation that the next news from Europe will be less favorable to the restoration of peace.

The stock market is irregular. Government securities steady without much activity.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The House has passed a joint resolution relieving the China Mail Steamship Company from obligations to stop at Honolulu, but requiring them to make thirteen instead of twelve trips yearly, and appropriating $500,000 to establish a line of steamships between San Francisco and Honolulu.

The Senate recommitted the Northern Pacific Railroad bill to the Pacific Railroad committee.

In the House, Bidwell of California, from the committee of conference on the Senate bill to grant lands in California for a wagon road, made a report which was agreed to.

The House debated and acted on the Rousseau affair. The resolution to expel Rousseau received 72 ayes to 49 noes. Not being two-thirds, it was not adopted. The resolution to censure Grinnell was rejected without a division. The House then adopted a resolution to reprimand Rousseau by 89 ayes to 30 noes. Rousseau was in his seat during the proceedings.

Delegates from Ohio to the Philadelphia Convention—Tennessee Matters—Great Excitement

CHICAGO, July 18.—The Ohio Democratic State executive committee have appointed William Allen, George H. Pendleton, E. W. Morgan, and M. J. Willett, delegates at large to the Philadelphia Convention.

The Tennessee House of Representatives yesterday passed a resolution in reference to the case of Williams of Custer county, in whose favor a writ of habeas corpus was issued by Judge Frazier. The resolution denies jurisdiction to the courts, and instructs Capt. Hayne the sergeant-at-arms, to present said reason as his return to the writ. Gov. Brownlow has Williams under arrest, and expresses himself determined to stand a suit and also as bound to have a quorum and to pass the Constitutional Amendment. Williams refused to accept a parole. Disloyalty is rampant. There are threats of dispersing the legislature by violence. A feverish excitement prevails throughout the city. The deputies sent to arrest Henry Brown, a bolter from Madison county, could not find him, but met his brother, Milton Brown, President of the Mobile and Ohio railroad company, who told them that Henry wouldn't go if they did find him. That President Johnson did not want a quorum in the legislature, and said the President was opposed to their whole proceedings and would soon put a stop to them.

Resignation of P. M. General Dennison.

CHICAGO, July 16.—The following official correspondence is published:

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Sir: I have the honor to tender you herewith my resignation of the office of Postmaster General, to take effect upon your notifying me of its acceptance. In thus withdrawing from your Cabinet, it is proper to say that I do so chiefly because of the difference of opinion between us in regard to the proposed amendment of the Constitution, which I approved, and for the proposed convention to be held at Philadelphia on the 14th proximo, to which I am opposed. My confidence in the patriotism of the Union Republican party, and the conviction that upon its permanent control of the government depends in a great measure the peace and happiness of the country, will not permit of my holding an equivocal attitude in respect to it. Assuring you of my personal appreciation of uniform courtesy received from you, I am very respectfully yours,

W. DENNISON.

The following is the President's reply:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, July 16.—Sir: Your resignation of the office of Postmaster General, tendered in your letter of the 11th, is hereby accepted. Fully appreciating your kind assurance of personal regard, I am, very respectfully, yours,

(Signed) ANDREW JOHNSON.

Correspondence on the New Party Movement.

The letter of Senator Doolittle to the members of the Cabinet, demanding their views concerning the new party movement, is not published, but the following are the replies elicited:

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Sir: Your note of the 10th inst was received yesterday. I cordially approve the movement which has been instituted to sustain the Administration in maintaining the Union of the States and I recognize, in the call which you have sent me, the principles and views by which the Administration has been governed. The attempt was made to destroy the national integrity by secession. In the suppression of the rebellion, measures were commenced to re-establish the fraternal relations which for four years had been interrupted. The policy indicated by President Lincoln to restore the national integrity was hurried forward by President Johnson. The States which had been in rebellion were, under this benign policy, resuming their legitimate functions. The people had laid down their arms; and those who had been in insurrection were returning to their allegiance. The Constitution had been vindicated and the Union was supposed to be restored, when a check was put upon the progress to national harmony and prosperity, thus dawning on the country. Upon the assembling of Congress, all efforts towards Union and nationality became suddenly paralyzed. Measures of conciliation, which the President had, from the time he entered upon his duties, pursued with eminent success, were arrested and their beneficent aim to a great extent defeated. An attempt was made to impose conditions precedent upon States before permitting them to exercise their constitutional rights. Loyal Senators and Representatives of States which had been in rebellion were refused admittance into Congress; the people were denied rightful constitutional representation, and eleven States were and are excluded from all participation in the Government. These proceedings, which conflict with the fundamental principles on which our whole government system is founded, all generating and consolidating sectional animosity, and, if long persisted in, must eventuate in a permanent alienation. I rejoice, therefore, in a movement which has for its object Union in one bond of love of the people of our common country, which invites to council and to political action citizens of every State and territory from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from lake to Gulf. The centralizing theory that loyal and qualified Senators and Representatives from the Southern States shall be excluded from Congress, and that these States and the people of those States shall not participate in the Government, is scarcely less repugnant than that of secession itself. The proposition to change the Constitution and unsettle some of the fundamental principles of our organic law, and to change our judicial system in such a manner as to destroy the independence of States by transferring to general tribunals all questions relating to life, liberty and property of all citizens; to change the basis of representation which was one of difficult and delicate compromises of the convention of 1787, when no States were excluded from representation, or to change the existing and wisely adjusted distribution of powers between different opponents of the Government by transferring the pardoning power in certain cases from the Executive, where it properly belongs, to Congress, or the Legislative branch of the Government, to which it does not legitimately pertain, to incorporate into our Constitution, which is to stand through all time, a predisposition (?) of citizens who have erred, and are liable to penalties under existing enactments by disqualifications partaking of the nature of ex post facto laws and bills of attainder—these propositions or changes aggregate as one, and are called an amendment to the Constitution designed to operate upon the people and States which are denied all representation or voice in Congress, which originates them, and are of a radical if not a revolutionary character. These and other proceedings and political crises which they have tended to, produce, justify and demand a convention of the people, by delegates from all States and the whole country. The President has labored with devoted assiduity to promote union, harmony, prosperity and happiness among States and people, but has met with resistance and calumny, and even when he has a right to expect co-operation and friendly support. That the great body of our countrymen are earnestly and cordially with him in his efforts to promote national welfare, I never have doubted, notwithstanding the hostility of malevolent partizans, stimulated by a perverted party organization, and I rejoice that the Convention which shall represent all the Union men of our whole country has been called to sustain him.

I am very respectfully yours,
(Signed) GIDEON WELLES.

CHICAGO, July 18.—Attorney-General Speed writes as follows:

"WASHINGTON, July 14.—Sir—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your note of the 10th inst., with a printed copy of a call for a National Union Convention to be held in Philadelphia on the 14th of Aug. You request that if the call and the principles connected in it, meet with my approval, that I reply at my earliest convenience. This language would seem to imply that an answer is desired, if I do not approve the call and principles avowed in it. In other words, that a failure to make a reply may be interpreted as a disapproval not only of the call but of each and all the principles annexed. This is a position in which I am unwilling to be placed when I approve of many of the principles set forth in the call. I will briefly state my reasons, first, premising that I do not recognize the very respectable gentlemen who have made the call as the acknowledged organs of the Union party of this country. Since the outbreak of the terrific struggle from which the country has just emerged, we have had a natural Union party that has exhibited more devotion, made greater sacrifices and manifested a more unselfish patriotism than any political party ever did previously in the history of the world. That party is still in being with its organization, intact, and objects known, and as that party by its faith, its doctrines and its acts, has, in the face of the population of half the New World and the whole of the old World saved the Government and Republican institutions of our common country from demoralization and indeed from ruin and the theory of eternal indispensable Union of States through which only can a particle of the theory of State rights ever be maintained or carried out, it would appear to me to be still its duty or at any rate the most effectual method as far as a party can be used for finally adjusting all the remaining unsettled matters of reconstruction, conscientiously with the requirements of the theory mentioned. This party is the same to-day as it was in the days of its trials; the same party now as when but a few short months ago it elected Lincoln and Johnson and a majority of the present Congress, and as I acted with it then for paramount reasons, my sense of duty demands that I shall remain and act with it now. The pith and marrow of the present call I should say tends to take a party for sustaining, not the Government in its entirety, as has been the mission of the Union party, but a department of the Government. And here I must take the liberty of saying that I can hardly conceive of a sadder spectacle under the trials of our present circumstances than that of the great and tried Union party of the country becoming distorted and broken up by divisions, or that of one branch of the Government tending to an isolated position upon questions of deep and common interest, placing itself in hostile conflict with co-ordinate departments. For these and other reasons which might be mentioned, I cannot join in the call for the Convention at Philadelphia. I have stated that some of the principles of the call, in my view, are unobjectionable. I will not stop to criticise those which are objectionable, but content myself with stating that the call fails to take any notice of one of the great issues now before the people. I allude to the question whether the several States shall ratify or reject the last amendment proposed by Congress to the Constitution of the United States. This is the grave and all-important question. The issue on it cannot be avoided. It should be placed early and squarely before the people. The failure of taking ground on so important a question, must be attributed to a desire to avoid the issue or as a declaration of their belief being entirely and decidedly in favor of the adoption of the amendment by the States. I cannot go into an organization that would either openly oppose that measure, or one that would smother it by avoiding its discussion. I must also add, no man is more desirous than I to see entire restoration of the American Union, with its practical workings in more perfect harmony and consent than ever, and the surety, as far as mortal affairs can be made, of its endless perpetuity. The blessings to follow from such a union are countless and inestimable. Such a union, consistent within itself, maintained by the universal consent of all classes and sections, and laughing to scorn both the assaults of foes, internal and external, and the ravages of time's changes, will only be obtained and confirmed from the supreme and general idea of that fundamental law of the Constitution that the general idea thereof is in behalf of political liberty and equality, maintained under the laws. Such and such can be the kind of nationality that will put in form the magnificent and lofty dreams of an American Continental bond and fulfill in the future the highest effort of the present and past. It is not the vague delusion of the rights of the States to the declaration of the American theory culminates properly that does not insert the soundness of the rights of each single individual; that, after all, is what Washington carried out with his sword, and Jefferson, filtered through his subtle and free mind, drew up and put on record with the pen. It is well known that in the political and loyal history of the United States the only departures or compromises of any kind alluded to have been those in the interests of slavery and of its manifold incidents. I do not, of course, propose to go over the thousand told tale of the history of the past sixty years of slavery to-day—as a contrasted legality, it is, we all know, tainted, but some of the most important of its incidents and compromises still remain incongruous upon the records of the country and will surely cause a chafing sense of injustice as long as it is continued. Furthermore the high mission of the Union party as avowed in the Baltimore Convention, to extirpate slavery included the removal of that hateful and anti-popular excrescence engrafted by that institution for its own selfish aggrandizement upon our free national laws and policy. These high missions and obligations cannot be accomplished until all which slavery has engrafted is cut out; for until then slavery is not extirpated. Earnestly sympathizing with the men who look to a law for equal representation as the only guarantee both for popular rights and popular acquiescence, I would feel myself out of place in a party that forms a basis of representation giving peculiar and unrighteous advantages to a portion of the body politic to the detriment and dissatisfaction of the whole Union. With you, and all good men of the South I have felt a peace, prosperity and amicable brotherhood which is more than any worldly prosperity, may soon prevail and continue unbroken through our beloved common country and that former enmities shall die out and be forgotten and lost; and that, all over the broad domain of America, equal laws shall protect equal rights to all mankind. I have the honor to subscribe myself

Your ob'd't serv't, (Signed) JAS. SPEED."

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—The Pacific Mail Steamship Golden Age, left at 11 o'clock this morning, with about 250 passengers and $1,300,195 in treasure.

Deputy United States Marshall Noyes went outside of the Heads on the cutter Shubrick with a warrant for the arrest of Charles Williams, the colored boy supposed to have stolen Blackford's money on board the Moses Taylor, but found that the young scamp had left at San Juan del Sur.

A Spaniard named Fernando Soriano, stabbed another Spaniard, Alonzo Cardena, about half-past 2 o'clock this morning on Kearny street, killing him instantly. Fernando was arrested. No cause is known beyond the fact that the parties had become involved in a street brawl.

Judge Pratt, to-day, ordered that John Doane be admitted to bail in the sum of $10,000.

Frederick C. Rading was, to-day, discharged from his debts and liabilities by a decree of the county court.

The steamer Sierra Nevada, which left Victoria on the morning of July 16th, arrived here this forenoon. She brings $24,393 in treasure.

The auction sale of Hawaiian sugars this morning showed a slight decline on medium grades while the dark grades proportionately did better.

A private telegram dated New York, yesterday, received by a grain shipper in this city, quotes a decline in the wheat market there, with the prospect of a good crop.

The Markets.

Gold—Legal Tenders—Mining Stocks.

Private telegrams received in this city last evening quote gold as ranging in New York yesterday at 148@151 as extremes and sterling at 106 dull, but firm. To-day dispatches quote gold in N. Y. this morning at 149.

The market here for Legal Tenders, is firm at 70½ and 70¾ buying, and 71 and 71¼ selling. Very little disposition to operate at the inside figures.

Mining stocks are a shade better. Bullion shows an advance of $12 50 from the last cash sale on the 16th. From the morning board yesterday, Ophir advanced $47 50, Yellow Jacket $25, Overman $5, Imperial $1. Belcher declined $2 50 and Confidence $2.

FROM THE NORTH.

SEATTLE, July 19.—The ship Asia sailed from Utsalady on Thursday last with a cargo of spars for Toulon, France. In attempting to get under way she got aground in the harbor. She floated off, however at high tide; no damage sustained.

The bark Oakland arrived at Port Ludlow on Friday last.

Bark "Adelaide Cooper" arrived at Port Ludlow on Saturday.

J. A. Frazer.

It becomes our sad duty to record the death of J. A. Frazer, a Senator in the Oregon Legislative Assembly. He died of consumption, in Salem, on Thursday last, July 12th, 1866, aged about 35 years.

Mr. Frazer was born in Woodford county, Kentucky, emigrated to California in 1849, and came up to Oregon in 1851, where he has resided ever since. He was a graduate of Hanover College, Indiana, and an ardent and persevering friend of the cause of education. He has always occupied a high position in society, and deservedly so, for there were none of purer motives or nobler purposes in life, or who were more honorable or conscientious in all their dealings with their fellow-men. In politics, he has always been on the side of freedom and earnestly opposed to slavery. In a speech of marked ability on the anti-slavery amendment, at the special session, he declared he had left his native State on account of his repugnance to her pro-slavery institutions. When the Republican party was formed, he was put forward as one of its advocates and leaders in Polk county, and ran for the Legislature on that ticket in 1860. In 1862, after the formation of the Union party, he was taken up and triumphantly elected to the Senate from the same county where he had been defeated by the power of the old Lane Democracy the canvass preceding. He took a prominent part in all the business before the Senate, and was one of its most useful, honored and influential members. He was a member of the Christian Church, and exemplified his profession by an humble and devout walk and conversation through life. He had an earnest desire to live to vote for a Union man for the U. S. Senate, but was impressed with the idea that he could not survive but a brief period. Requiescat en pace.—Statesman.

TO DEALERS IN
INDIA RUBBER AND GUTTA PERCHA
COMBS!
OFFICE OF THE INDIA RUBBER COMB CO.,
New York, January 2, 1866.

THE HARD-RUBBER PATENTS OF NELSON Goodyear were extended, May 6, 1866, for seven years by the United States Commissioner of Patents.

By final decree of the United States Circuit Court, rendered October 27, 1862, these patents were fully sustained, and all previous and subsequent infringers have been put under injunction in each Circuit in the United States where suits have been brought. In every case costs and damages have been awarded. Over two hundred injunctions against merchants and dealers, in various parts of the country, have been granted by the United States Courts. It is the intention of this Company to protect its rights, by prosecuting with the utmost rigor of the law all infringers, whether manufacturers or dealers, large or small. This Company has the sole privilege of manufacturing India Rubber and Gutta Percha Combs, and again cautions the Trade and the public against purchasing or selling any Combs not having its copyrighted label and licensed stamp:

I. R. Comb Co., Goodyear's Patent, May 6, 1851.

All Combs not thus stamped are illegal, and their sale is an infringement of the exclusive right of this Company and will be stopped by the Courts, and the parties selling them—no matter how innocently or ignorantly they err—will be mulcted in damages. Honest merchants can avoid all trouble by purchasing only of responsible houses and refusing to buy Combs not stamped as above. The most casual inspection of the Combs will show whether they are stamped or not.

The customers of the India Rubber Comb Company and all dealers in Combs, are particularly requested to inform the undersigned attorneys of parties who sell infringing Combs. Any expense incurred in thus bringing infringers to our notice will be repaid.

DOG DAYS.—In temperate climates the months of July and August are, by almost common consent, called dog days. In other words dogs and animals of that family are apt to go mad, not unfrequently attacking human beings and giving that terrific disease, hydrophobia. This word is derived from two Greek words meaning water and to fear, the former species of madness occurring in dogs, which Aristotle denies that man is ever affected by. From that time to this medical authorities have been divided. The disease may be propagated by the dog, wolf, jackal and cat, and you along come an animal which is generally whose head was scratched by the teeth of a mad animal, being under it, because affected with hydrophobia. Man and most, if not all, of the domestic animals are capable of contracting the disease, but whether they can communicate it is still undecided. When communicated the saliva must be applied to the mucous membrane or the wounded surface; the mere contact of the poison with the unbroken skin will not, except in rare cases, produce the disease. There is no certain limit of the time of the breaking out of the disease after contact. The greatest number of cases occur between the thirtieth and fifty-ninth days, while some attacks have been deferred until after a lapse of six, seven, nine and nineteen months. The first symptoms is a painful or weary sensation in the cicatrix or scar of the original wound that extends to the trunk. Soon the wound itself becomes red, livid or inflamed, opens afresh and discharges a watery humor. Within two days after this and no longer than six the third and final stage commences. A feeling of stiffness occurs about the back of the neck, which extends to the base of the jaw and root of the tongue; the patient finds himself unable to swallow fluids; the attempt brings on a fit of the most distressing choking and sobbing. He is tormented with thirst and a paroxysm will be excited from the sight or sound of water; the mind suffers from excitement, alarm, irritation and suspicion with occasional delirium; vomiting is often present. Death usually takes place on the second or third day, though it has occurred in twenty-four hours and has been delayed until the ninth day. In some cases towards the close of the disease the patient is able to eat and drink and it appears easy; thus he may sink into sleep, which is but the precursor of death, or he may expire in a fit of general convulsion. Examination after death throws no light upon the cause of this appalling disease. Some curious instances of how it may be taken are related by Mr Youatt; a man was noticed trying to untie a knot in a cord with his teeth two months after he died of hydrophobia, the cord had been used to tie up a mad dog. A woman had her dress torn by a mad dog, and in mending it she pressed the seam with her teeth and was inoculated. Dr Hamilton thinks but one person in twenty-five is liable to an attack after being bitten. In Senlis, France, five out of fifteen were attacked. The bite of a rabid wolf is more fatal, as sixty seven out of one hundred and fourteen who were bitten perished. When true hydrophobia sets in the patient dies; no case of cure is on record. Chloroform and narcotics relieve the agony, but that is all. Immediately cutting out the bitten part has sometimes saved life. When this cannot be done caustics such as nitric acid, lunar caustic, or the actual cautery applied direct to the wound are considered the best. Lunar caustic has been used with success by Mr Youatt. This horrible malady is, most fortunately, rare in Oregon and on the Pacific coast. But as excessive hot weather and putrid food may produce it among the animals mentioned, the public should know all it is possible about its nature and to be on their guard during what are known as dog days.

RIVALS OF PORTLAND.—It seems our good friends in Eugene City and Corvallis are somewhat fearful that the completion of the Oregon Central Military Road may interfere with the prosperity and future greatness of Portland. Hear what the Corvallis Gazette says: "The Government donates alternate sections of land to aid its construction, and the work is being pressed with vigor. This is another attestation of the enterprise to the southern portion of our State, and the harbinger of the iron horse that ere long, with fiery breath, will be careering through the waving fields of the most fertile valleys in Oregon. The first railroad in Willamette Valley in our opinion will be built from the Yaquina Bay to Corvallis, and thence to Eugene City. The project is not chimerical. This is claimed to be the most direct and available route to travel from San Francisco to Owyhee and the mines of eastern Oregon, and the railroad is an imperative necessity. Self interest on the part of the farmers and merchants in this part of the valley should prompt them to energetic action in this matter. We do not expect or desire to kill or even seriously cripple Portland; we only desire to employ the means for developing the resources and restoring life and activity to southern Oregon. Farmers do you desire a market as of yore for your produce, and the value of your lands enhanced a hundred fold? If so, use the means now at your command, and the end will most assuredly be accomplished."

GOOD FOR THE TANNERS AND CURRIERS.—Our manufacturing interests are often misrepresented and go unnoticed in commercial reports, and it gives us pleasure to quote the following from a late market review published by Messrs. McCraken, Merrill & Co., of this city: "The stock of Eastern Leather is very low. Dealers and manufacturers are now running upon California and Oregon stock, giving it a preference over all other kinds; and such, we believe, is the case in the Atlantic States where Pacific stock has been used. At present our supplies are quite inadequate to meet the growing export trade, to say nothing of home wants for manufacturers. We remark sales of Oregon, fir tanned, at 18@30c. ℔ lb, for sole, 24@28c for harness, and 28@30c. for skirting. California oak tanned is worth more; say harness 25@35, skirting is worth 30@35."

THE FESTIVAL.—The strawberry and ice-cream festival at the Lincoln House on Tuesday evening last, was a decided success. The crowd was large and the edibles disappeared with the usual rapidity on such occasions. Mr Jewett, proprietor of the Lincoln House, used every exertion to make the affair pleasant and agreeable, while the ladies were as attentive and fascinating as ever. The funds will be used for the benefit of the M. E. Church.

ONCE MORE AT REST.—The river has fallen so that the huge rafts of sleepers between Front street and the O. S. N. Co's warehouses are again resting upon their original foundation. The caving of the banks has somewhat demoralized their symmetry but a slight outlay will be sufficient to repair all damages. The water is still about three feet and a half over the wharf floor.

NEWS.—Our neighbor round the corner announced yesterday that Co. "E," of the Oregon Infantry was on its way to Ft Vancouver to be discharged. This will be news to Capt. McGown and his men who have been following the walks of private citizens for several months. Company E was mustered out before the Herald was born.

ARRIVAL OF THE STEAMSHIP ORIZABA.—The steamship Orizaba, Capt. Metzger, arrived last night a little after 7 o'clock, having been out five days from San Francisco. She experienced severe head winds on her way up. Her marine report, passenger list and list of consignees will be found in another column.

ENCAMPMENT INSTALLATION.—At the last regular meeting of "Ellison Encampment," I. O. O. F., the following officers for the ensuing term were installed: James Elton, C. P.; William Dierdorff, H. P.; Alonzo Chase, S. W.; Joseph Backman, Scribe; C. Hills, Treasurer; Thomas Stevens, J. W.

NO COURT.—Judge Hoffman, City Recorder, has been unwell for a few days, and not able to preside over the destinies of the victims of police surveillance. From present appearances the docket will not be weighty if he should remain sick a month. We hope to see the worthy Judge on the bench soon.

THE CYCLOID PIANO-FORTE.—Messrs. Shanahan & Dufrene, picture frame and musical instrument dealers are expecting by this steamer some cycloid pianos manufactured by Lindeman & Sons, New York. They are highly spoken of by musicians in the East.

REV. W. H. STOY.—This gentleman arrived on the steamer last night. Arrangements are in progress to duly install him as rector of Trinity (Episcopal) Church in this city, we understand.

NEWS FAVORS.—Mr McCormick of the Franklin Book store, has placed us under obligations by lying on our table a large lot of the newest papers and magazines received by the steamer.

STEAM UP.—The Wilson G. Hunt was charging around yesterday with a full head of steam. She was on trial probably, as she takes the place of the disabled Cascade this morning.

HAY CUTTING.—The farmers in the vicinity of this city are busily engaged in cutting and harvesting hay. The crop is said to be good this season.

BLACK CHERRIES.—We saw some splendid black cherries in market yesterday. The larger kind of this fruit are delicious eating in their natural state.

THANKS.—We are indebted to Wells Fargo & Co. through W. G. West, Esq., their messenger, for files of San Francisco papers by the Orizaba last night.

FAVORS.—Our thanks are due to Dan B. Foster, Jr., W. F. & Co's messenger, for copies of the Walla Walla Statesman and Idaho Union.

TREASURE.—By the Julia, Wells, Fargo & Co., received $60 000 in bullion from the upper country last night.

FROM IDAHO

THE INDIAN WAR—ONE WHITE MAN KILLED—PEACE CONCLUDED WITH THIRTY FIVE INDIANS.

A letter was received here last night per Wells Fargo & Co.'s Express, written at Ruby City July 11th, by a well known resident of this city, from which we are permitted to take the following items of news:

All apprehensions of further immediate trouble with Indians in this vicinity are allayed. One hundred of the volunteers who went out to the relief of Capt. Jennings and his besieged party have returned, and the remainder of them are still out in pursuit of the Indians. The returning detachment report that the besieged volunteers succeeded in killing thirty five red skins, before they abandoned the siege and retreated. Thomas Cason, who formerly lived in Clackamas county, was one of the original company which was surrounded. During the first day's fight he was wounded, but fought most desperately, killing fifteen Indians. He had, it seems, got cut off from the main body and had intrenched himself by building a sort of wall all around him. On the second day while continuing the gallant contest, he was shot through the head and instantly killed.

Beriah Brown is indignant because Union orators on the Fourth of July spoke in severe terms of the late wicked rebellion and of the actors in and sympathizers with it. Now we insist that these orators are not very greatly to blame. Each of them can answer Beriah in the words of the following translation from Sophocles:

'Tis you that say it, not I. You do the deeds,
And your ungodly deeds find me the words.

Any person imitating this bottle, or selling any other material therein, whether called Plantation Bitters or not, is a criminal under the U. S. Law, and will be so prosecuted by us. We already have our eye on several parties re-filling our bottles, &c., who will succeed in getting themselves into close quarters. The demand for Drake's Plantation Bitters from ladies, clergymen, merchants, &c., is incredible. The simple trial of a bottle is the evidence we present of their worth and superiority. G. VENARD,

CHARTRES COFFEE!

Manufactory Established in June, 1851.

STEAM POWER, NOS. 626 AND 627 FRONT ST.

HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GOLDEN COFFEE of the best qualities, CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.

The undersigned who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise which commands here and in the markets of the interior a relatively higher price excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who by counterfeit or imitation of his mark seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless buyers should be forewarned and placed on their guard against this practice.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

The Haunted Waterfall

A BALLAD—BY GEORGE COOPER.

The lady Laura lies upon her couch in soft repose,
Around her form the waning fire a ghastly halo throws;
Beside her lie her rats and mice, her Derby and her [illegible],
With her waterfall, her satin robe and divers other bows.

O dreams the lady Laura now of yester-evening's ball,
Where vast in beauty and in pride she reigned the queen of all?
Or dreams she of the wounded hearts that neath her [illegible] fell?
But hark! a footstep [illegible] loud is heard along her father's hall.

Up stairs it comes—the wind was of the stately dwelling shake
A brace of poodles in their sleep a doleful howling make
The fire is burning sulphury as Pluto's lurid lake;
The footsteps at my lady's door—O lady Laura, wake!

She sees a female figure there a standing by her side;
'Tis clad in white from head to foot—its pale and hollow eyed
And on that gorgeous waterfall it looks with silent pride;
The lady Laura cannot move, her tongue with fear is tied.

"And have I found you once again my bonny locks of hair!
Oh long I've sought you high and low since head of mine was bare
I will not lay a hand on you, to harm you lady fair,
But I must carry to my grave this very night that ere

For oh upon my head in life these golden ringlets grew
And round my rosy cheeks, when young, in shining ripples blew!
It's very cold below the sod, I needs them more than you;
I leave now, for I sniffs the morn, my lady fair adieu!"

Strange Phenomenon—A Meteoric Shower in Alabama.

Under date of May 28th, George T. Salle communicates the following to the Mobile Tribune

This day a fortnight ago the meteoric stones began to fall, and have fallen every day since, including to-day, with increasing interest, with the exception of heat. No hot ones have fallen that I am aware of. One day last week the young man that waits in my house remarked to me that "them things kept falling at Eiselline's house, that an old bone and a piece of wood had fallen." I walked to her house and found her in the yard with a bone that was apparently once a soup bone and the knee of the shin bone, and a piece of perfectly seasoned basket oak, which was clean and entirely free from dirt, and looked as if it had come from some workshop. I showed both of the pieces of wood and bone to a neighbor who had come for the express purpose of gratifying his curiosity.

We were both of the opinion that the bone had been exposed to the weather some ten or twelve years. They both fell together and at the same time in the yard. As I approached within ten steps of her fence, one stone, not silicious, came rattling down through one of the trees, and almost in the same instant another fell within four or five feet, right before my eyes. Whilst conversing with her she stepped to a chicken coop, which was lying there, and presented me with a lump of clayey looking stuff, about the hardness of a half burnt brick. She said Tom, her husband, had plowed it up some days before they began to fall, as it were in showers, and brought it to the house, but that she had forgotten to show it to me. This lump would weigh, in the estimation of the gentleman above alluded to, at least six pounds. It fell in plowed ground, where the corn was knee high. One fell last night, at a late hour, on my house with great violence, during a storm of wind, rain, thunder and lightning. For want of a ladder I am unable to get it, as it is lodged in the gutter. I learn to-day that they have fallen likewise at Mr. Sullivan's, six miles from me, who lives at what has long been called "Jordon's Ferry," on Bassett's Creek.

I was in conversation a week ago with one of the most intelligent ladies of our country, who informed me that the like phenomena occurred several years ago in Mississippi, and continued to fall a whole year, confined there, just as here, to one locality; that the neighbors, philosophically, supposed it was some mischievous person, and incontinently mustered all the "nigger dogs" and scoured the whole country, so that the thing remains a mystery to this day. As I have no opportunity of forwarding this at present, I will here, once for all, quote all that Shoeler, in his Book of Nature, says on the subject. Page 342, he says:

"Native iron, occurs rarely in layers or veins of inconsiderable thickness or in grains of laminæ. The most remarkable variety is the 'meteoric iron,' consisting of masses of nativ iron which have fallen from the atmosphere and which weigh from 171 to 3,000 even 14,000 pounds. Mention may be made here of the meteoric stones which contain, with few exceptions, native iron, besides other earthy constituents, such as augite, hornblend, olivine, &c. Native iron, supposed to be of terrestrial origin, has been observed at Canaan, Conn., where it occurs in a vein two inches thick.

"Last evening, at 6 o'clock, we had the most violent storm which we have ever witnessed, except on one occasion this spring, during which some meteoric stones fell with great force on my house. Fortunately for me I took Vol. 1 of Malte Brun's Universal Geography, and at page 123 read:

The atmosphere has at all times contributed to augment the number of the solid substance of the globe. The showers of stones, described as prodigies by many Greek and Roman historians, have been finally placed beyond the reach of doubt by the enlightened observations of Biot, Chaldini and other philosophers. All these substances thrown down upon the earth from the clouds contain the same elements of silex, iron and nickel. They seem to be only the nuclei or kernels of those balls of fire which we often see traversing the atmosphere with a dazzling brightness, and disappearing in the twinkling of an eye. Thus the bolides, or atmospheric stones, should be concretions formed by the elementary gasses, and perhaps by an effect of electricity; but they may also be regarded as so many satellites, or diminutive moons, revolving round our planet, terminate their course by uniting themselves to it, when causes that are unknown, but easy to be conceived, have deprived them of a part of their centrifugal force."

Was Dr. Franklin wrong in thinking "that there may have been a time when it rained stones as it now does water?"

THE FIRST BULL RUN.—It is hardly necessary to seek any explanation of the events of Bull Run, other than what arises from the consideration of the simple fact that the battle was fought at all. McDowell's plan of battle was well considered, and even bold; but the faults of execution were innumerable. Owing to the absence of anything like a staff, the attack was made in a most fragmentary way, without order and ensemble. Since the close of the war the writer of these pages has had with General Johnston a very full conversation on this action; and on the question of the general management of the battle of Manassas, he spoke as follows: "The key-point was a flat, bare crest. It was here that the Federals made their attacks. But they were made by a brigade at a time. The position was really hardly tenable, and had an attack been make in force, with double line of battle—such as any Major General in the United States service would now make—we could not have held it half an hour, for they would have enveloped us on both flanks."

So far as regards the mere physical fact of fighting, which was at the time the all-important question, there was nothing of which the Union soldiers had to be ashamed—they stood up to it with the blood of their race. The fault lay in the inherently vicious organization of the force—in the great number of miserable subordinate officers which in turn was the natural result of the method of raising regiments. Yet with all their faults, the action was for a time almost a success, which shows that the Confederates were really in not much better condition. Their chief point of advantage was in the better class of officers created by their system. Nevertheless, the victory long hung in the balance, and might readily have declared itself on either side — Wm Swinton.

THE FRENCH TROOPS IN MEXICO —In the United States Senate lately, Senator Harris made the following important statement

Mr President, I have this morning been put in possession of some information in relation to Mexican question which, while I do not deem it very important in reference to the subject immediately pending before the Senate, may be interesting to the Senate upon the general question of Mexican affairs. I have in my hand extracts from a letter coming from a source which, if I were at liberty to mention it would be very satisfactory to every Senator. It is a letter from Paris, just received, which states as follows

"It is the policy of the French Government to avoid any new negotiation with the Cabinet of Washington but it is its clear determination to recall its troops and even to anticipate the term of eighteen months already appointed as necessary for the French evacuation. This policy is so evident that in looking at the facts you can rely upon a very early evacuation. The orders are already given from the French War Department to recall in the next October the most important part of the total amount of French troops now in Mexico. When the number of their troops which are to be withdrawn within the next Fall shall be known in the United States, it will satisfy the most exciting parties that the remainder of the French army will be recalled in the next spring."

Effects of the War

The following paragraphs are extracted from a letter from West Virginia to the Sacramento Union

Everybody in West Virginia was on the point of becoming rich, and some people actually did get rich, trafficing in oil before the war. Burning Spring was only eighteen miles from a station on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and at Petroleum only twenty five miles from Parkersburg on the Ohio river, and immediately on the line of that road wells were sunk and oil discovered in good paying quantities. In fact, they are working now. The people of West Virginia were in good part loyal. Some portions were, however strongly rebel, and turned out whole regiments to fight for, and, as the event proved, die for the Confederacy. West Virginians are not the most enlightened of people as a class. The whole region seems to derive its physical conformation from the vicinity of the Alleghany Mountains and is serrated and rough. Narrow valleys of the most fertile land to be found on the continent wind around among steep ridges, densely wooded to the summit, and covered with the same fertile mold that more deeply fills the valleys. Among these hills are a multitude of the most primitive of homes—simple log dwellings, and perhaps a log stable. Homespun is the rule and "store goods" are the exception. School houses are rare, and the itinerant church does more to educate the people and mold their character than all other means combined. In the towns and more favored localities a few slaves were to be seen but as a class, the people of West Virginia knew little about slavery, and were little used to see slaves. It was to such a people as this that the old State appealed for help against the "Yankees" and my every day intercourse is with men who were in the rebel service fighting for slavery, not one of whom but would have been lowered and degraded in every social and moral point of view had the rebellion succeeded and the dominion of slavery been made safe and permanent over the Southern States and the poor white population like themselves. In almost every instance I have knowledge of families divided in their allegiance. All the young men were in the war, and almost invariably some brothers were fighting for the Union while others were enlisted against it. This fact seems to have left no bitterness, and has caused in no instance that I am aware of any interruption of harmony. The policy of the mass of the elders seems to have been to avoid all participation, and to this day good ignorant creatures abound who have no opinion to express and never have been known to express one. It is safe to presume they would have been as well satisfied and much more "jubilant" had the rebellion succeeded.

It is a source of amusement to me to get hold of one of those ex-warriors, many of whom are yet but boys, and demand of them what they supposed they were fighting for, and what they had to complain of from the General Government. I have to see the first man who has any disposition to fight left in him, or who makes any complaint, save of the radicalism that rules this State, and which, ultra republican as I am, seems to me more stringent and harassing than is any way necessary. It is tending toward a bitterness of feeling which is needless, for, so far as my own observation goes, the people are disposed to forget and forgive, and no one making a casual stay in this vicinity would believe that scarce a year ago they were so divided, not only on home questions, but actually fighting in opposing armies.

Of the men I employ, the foreman is of an inventive and constructive capacity that would become any "Yankee." He was with Early in the Shenandoah, saw the Peninsular campaign, the second battle of Manassas, and was with Lee at Antietam. His position was chief of the "pioneers." Several others were in the rebel service. Among these men so lately opposed on fields of battle, the utmost cordiality prevails. The war came upon this people with an abrupt demand, both from the General Government and from the State Government for their services, and allowance must be made for those who, at the home call, turned out to fight "the Yankees," for, after all, that was the rallying cry. The word "Yankee" was significant to them of all possible meanness and cowardice, and that crowning abomination "abolition and nigger equality." That word, "Yankee," is dignified in rebel eyes by hard fought fields, and substantial victories. The obloquy of the name is lost, it has acquired a national character, because the blue had been the "Yankee uniform" and the flag been called the "Yankee rag," so long that Southern Unionists accept the name of "Yankee" with complacency.

General Scott.

A correspondent of the Army and Navy Journal give the following sayings of General Scott during a conversation with the writer in April, 1865:

"Lieutenant George Watts, my aid, saved my life the morning before the battle of Chippewa. The circumstances are as follows. At the mouth of Street's creek, which empties into the Niagara river immediately adjacent to the battle-field of July 5th, stood a house occupied by a Mrs Street. As there were no males belonging to her family, she had applied to me for protection, and I had given her a safeguard, which was perfectly respected, and she made money by selling milk and different articles to the American troops. She invited me to breakfast with her, and I accepted the invitation. I had just prepared my first cup of coffee, and was about to raise it to my mouth, when I experienced the truth of the proverb that 'there is many a slip 'twixt the cup and lip.'

My aid, George Watts, perspiring very freely, had risen from the table and stepped across the room to another table, near the window, to get his pocket handkerchief out of his dragoon helmet or casque, which he had previously placed there. My cocked hat lay upon the same table and I lost it in consequence. Looking out of the window, he turned to me and said quietly but significantly, 'In three minutes the house will be surrounded by Indians!' I set down my untasted coffee, rushed from the room, cleared the piazza steps at a bound, and ran 'like a man' for the bridge that communicated with our side of the stream. Thus George Watt, by his promptness, saved my life, for the whole thing had been arranged by Mrs. Street, with the intention of murdering and scalping me. She had given the signal by waving something from the house as soon as we sat down.

The same night, after my victory at Chippewa, I made Mrs. Street's house our hospital, and its rooms and the court yard, in which I had caused tents to be pitched, were filled with our wounded. When I visited the house I found the treacherous woman and her daughter, a very pretty person, engaged in attending to the wants of the wounded British officers in the second story. I saw the latter carrying refreshments to a wounded British officer to whom she was engaged to be married. As she had been moving through the rooms filled with blood from injuries and amputations, her dress was completely drenched to the knee. Both mother and daughter avoided catching my eye, and I avoided any attempt to make them catch mine, for they were women, and as such, I could not feel vengeance, although they had attempted to compass my death. As I said before, upon this occasion I owed my life to Lieutenant Watts.

* * * * * * * * *

In my opinion Napoleon Bonaparte unquestionably was the greatest General of modern times, still Frederick was a man of the greatest genius, and of inflexible character. He can compare with any General of modern times.

Marshal Saxe was the greatest General of his period. His 'Reveries' were sparks thrown off by genius.

Hoche had true genius for war. Had he lived he would have been equal to any General of his day. He accomplished as much by his moderation and gentleness as he did by his force and soldiership. Witness his pacification of La Vendée.

For scientific war no one has exceeded Desaix. He also excelled in the landing of troops.

Napoleon had unbounded confidence in Massena as a Commander-in-Chief. Soult was the best strategist of Napoleon's subordinates. Ney was the best for execution. Massena stood next to Soult as a strategist, and next to Ney as an executive officer, but in the combination of their peculiar qualities he excelled both.

Greene was by far the best General of our Revolutionary war.

The morale of troops is in proportion to their discipline. Old troops possess more than new. Such was the case in our Canada army, certainly in my army in Mexico."

"Loyal men must keep Quiet"

Reconstructed rebels tell loyal men that our policy should be to keep quiet. Copperheads also say we must drop old issues, forget their record and thus admit that disloyalty is the rule and loyalty the exception. We are disposed to do no such thing. A true devotion to the principles of loyalty ever demands that traitors and traitor sympathizers shall be denounced and contemned. Copperheads and Democrats who for four years gave aid and comfort to the enemy, must not command Union men to be silent. The record Copperheads voluntarily made during the war, and even gloried while in the act, cannot be forgotten and wiped out in a single year of peace. They were wickedly wrong, they know it, and defiantly declared they would abide the consequences. We are disposed to hold them to it. So disposed in part because they are as obstinately disloyal at heart to-day as when Lee was marching on Washington, and when they expected that the Union army would never be able to conquer and disarm the Rebel army. The only difference we perceive in Copperheads of 1861 and 1866 is, during the war they expressed their principles, while they now hypocritically deny them. They are all professedly "loyal," but strangely are never found approving the loyal acts of the Government. They are all "loyal," but ever found affiliating with disloyalty. They submit to the results of the war precisely with the same grace as the disarmed rebels. They propose however to submit no longer than they are obliged to, and to day are calling upon the late rebels in the field —the rebels who murdered our fathers, brothers and sons, or starved them in Andersonville or Salisbury prison—to assemble at Philadelphia and meet there on a common platform to organize a political party, whose triumph would be the disgrace of loyal men and the honor of traitors and their sympathizers. There are the "loyal" converts of Mr Seward who accept the results of the war.

Our platform is unchanged. We cannot understand the logic which demands that the victors shall surrender to the vanquished. We do not appreciate that magnanimity which teaches that a disloyal is as honorable as a loyal record—and that as soon as the last rebel is disarmed he regains his status of a faithful subject. We not their embrace that magnanimity which professes in the name of charity and common brotherhood that we must forget the disloyal records of active and leading Copperheads. Shall we place Vallandigham and Thaddeus Stevens side by side on our political ticket and ask the votes of loyal men in support of both? Is it our duty to honor alike the loyal and disloyal? Shall we seal our lips and refuse to express loyal sentiments and refuse to pay adoration to the living heroes and dead martyrs of the war, because we may revive the hostility of disloyal Copperheads? Shall we talk softly to our Copperhead neighbors lest we irritate them, and revive the past? Out on such mawkish sensibility. Loyal men were right or wrong Copperheads were wrong or right. If we were right the integrity of the Government, justice to the dead rotting on traitor's soil, and a decent regard for individual independence, demand frank and unequivocal and unflinching declarations in defence of loyalty. We do not mean to persecute any man for simple opinion's sake. Neither do we mean to smother loyal sentiments to cater to the smiles of ranting Copperheads and rebel sympathisers. If there is any muzzling of free speech, it is the disloyal who shall shut their mouths. During the war every loyal man warned Copperheads of the record they were making for the future. We said their acts would follow them to the grave, and it is only forgotten then because it cannot be remembered longer —Marysville Appeal

IS NOW MANUFACTURED BY THE OREGON IRON Works in the city of Portland, and orders for the same can be filled immediately. We have a small supply of the different sizes, from 10 inches to 48 inches in diameter. That we may know the proper sized wheel you require, measure your water in the following way: Take the width of the stream, the average depth, and the distance it flows in a minute

All the wheels now in use give universal satisfaction. Both the construction of the wheel and its performance, commend it to the better judgment of all minds capable of appreciating the highest development of mechanical construction. Therefore it has conquered the most violent opposition

This wheel is especially adapted to mining purposes. It is light, and can be easily packed into the mountains. Wheels weighing from 100 to 300 pounds will yield from 10 to 40 horse power, under a head of 25 or 30 feet. They are the cheapest wheel to set up known, as they are so arranged as to produce the greatest power possible from the water used.

The prices of these wheels have now been reduced to the ability of all. Come and see them or send for a circular to

Dr Gibbon's Dispensary,

617 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies — that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of these charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combated by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, feted breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in a letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.
